

27 May 2004

To Whom It May Concern:

Re: Road Badger Performance

We contracted with Darren Janzen of Enviro One to recondition the roads in our park. I had been using an asphalt emulsion as a dust control product over gravel roads, but further applications were pointless since most of the oil was running off the hard surface where it was intact. But many potholes had developed, and much of the thin surface was breaking up.

The Road Badger did an excellent job of salvaging that old oil that was on the surface, at the same time as it incorporated the new oil into a much deeper mix. The combination of the thorough breaking up of the old material, followed by the deep mixing of the new oil, finished with a very good grading job, has given us roads that, in many areas, are hard to tell from hot mix pavement.

Some of our roads were a little too narrow and windy to allow the machinery to work to its full advantage, but Darren and his crew made the extra effort to get the best job possible, even under those circumstances. I would be happy to show the final result to anyone who is interested, and I recommend the Road Badger to anyone who wants nearly paved results for a small fraction of the cost.

Sincerely,

Greg Deck
Owner/operator

email: greg@canyonrv.com